CONTENTS

Welcome to the 2022 ATHENA Yearbook. My name is Callie Burton, and I'm the Editor-in-Chief of the one hundred and seventeenth addition of The Athena Yearbook.

The production of the ATHENA is a collaboration of many people: academic deans and staff, university staff, student organizations, and our editors and volunteers. Since our team is small, we rely on outside sources to help create a book that encompasses every aspect of Ohio University. While our staff sent many calls for content to many groups on campus, not everyone submitted content. For those of you who did, we are very excited to showcase their accomplishments and content with you.

Letter from the Editor

As graduation nears, this edition has become more emotional for our staff. We've spent the last four years working together on this book, cultivating friendships, and making memories to share.

As this chapter of our lives ends, new chapters begin for the four of us. And to the bright young women diving into our roles, may you all become as close as a staff as we have. This year we wanted the book to reflect the gratitude we have for Athens, along with the excitement we have for what is to come when we leave. Transitions, highlights the many stages of life we find ourselves in. Transitioning from freshman year to sophomore year, from stranger to life-long friend, from major to career. Each person will find their own connection to this year's theme as we focus on various aspects of the university: academics, student life, and organizations.

I have had the privilege of working with a remarkable staff over the course of the past three years. Bridget Ward, Managing Editor for the third year, did a wonderful job working with student organizations and college faculty and staff. Over the past three years, she poured her heart into this book and I could not have completed it without her. CJ Herr, Design Editor, did an outstanding job showcasing her original graphics. Her attention to detail, as well as her patience with me as I continued to make edits up until the deadline allowed for the creation of this beautiful book to share. Lizzie Blunk, Photo Editor, worked extremely hard to create and maintain relationships with photographers and find photos to fill all areas of the book. Without her continuous searching, we would not have found them all. I have a special appreciation for our advisors, Sarah McDowell and Jennifer Bowie, as they have guided me through my fourth year as Editor-in-Chief. I am excited to share everything that my staff has worked on throughout the year.

Thank you for picking up a copy of the 2020 ATHENA!

Go Bobcats!

College of Arts & Sciences student and faculty researchers dived into their work despite the pandemic. They are tracing the route of human ancestors out of Africa, using desert flowers to find unanswered questions about macroevolution, computing the universe's primordial growth spurt a trillionth of a second after the Big Bang, decoding ancient Sanskrit poetry to find a plotline for Star Wars' Kylo Ren, and calculating the growth of bobcats—Lynx rufus, the furry, spotty felines not the OHIO students—across the state.

College of Business

OHIO's College of Business made a roaring return in 2021 starting with its Experience COB Day that welcomed students back to campus. From career fairs to annual events like Global Entrepreneurship Week (pictured), students enjoyed a diverse mix of in-person and virtual professional development activities. Competitions such as the Collegiate World Cup allowed the Schey Sales Cats to showcase their skills while conferences like the Ohio HR Conference allowed Society for Human Resource Management students to network with professionals in Columbus. Selective programs and student organizations such as Emerging Leaders and Associated Press Sports Editors planned several events and traditions that Business Bobcats will remember forever.

Over the course of this year, the Fine Arts community, our students, faculty, staff, visiting artists and arts partners have celebrated the return to in person performances, exhibitions, and the arts and cultural events central to our mission. Throughout this time, students continued working closely with celebrated professionals producing virtual and in-person events in Music, Art, Design, Dance, Theater, Film, and through creative interdisciplinary scholarship. World class visiting artists traveled to campus from a wide variety of medium and practice including dancers Brian Brooks and Cara Hagan, National Dance Company of Ghana, theater equity actors Jessica Ranville and EJ Williams, filmmakers Sabine Gruffat and Bill Brown, pianist Qing Jiang, and artist Matt Wedel among others. Embracing a changed world with their own unique brand of resilient thinking, making, performance, curiosity and tenacity, students continued their professional experiences with arts organizations in the region including The Athena Cinema, Athens International Film + Video Festival, The Kennedy Museum of Art, Tantrum Theater, Athens Community Music School, ARTS/West, Athens Photo Project, Stuarts Opera House, and Passion Works Studio among others.

OHIO's Graduate College helps graduate students with their scholarly, creative and professional development, from orientation through theses and dissertations. Student support transitioned into an engaged online community during the pandemic, continuing to challenge students to present their thesis in just 3 minutes, to compete for top prizes at the Student Expo, and to apply for grants and fellowships to advance their scholarly work. And for students in the individual interdisciplinary and translational biomedical science programs that call Graduate College home, transitioning through the pandemic meant graduating and taking their well-earned credentials on to new careers in service to science and society.

Now more than ever, the events of the past year have served as a strong reminder of the value and importance of the health care profession, and the College of Health Sciences and Professions (CHSP) has become stronger and increasingly unified in its commitment to positively impact the health of all individuals, and their communities, across the lifespan.

From expanding its interdisciplinary outcomes by engaging with campus partners like the Heritage College of Osteopathic Medicine and the Voinovich School of Leadership and Public Service on numerous community funding and outreach efforts to the leadership and fundraising efforts by its 25+ student organizations, CHSP's shared commitment to service in health has allowed its students, faculty and staff to accomplish incredible things – all while setting the course for continued success.

The Heritage College has not let the COVID-19 pandemic hinder its medical education, care delivery and research initiatives. Faculty and staff continued to deliver meaningful medical educational experiences for our students in Athens, Cleveland and Dublin, as we trained more physicians for service to communities of greatest need in Ohio and beyond. In Athens, the first medical students trained in Heritage Hall, our new state-of-the-art learning facility. Heritage Hall also served as the site for COVID-19 vaccination clinics for the Ohio University and Athens communities.

While the name of the building changed—to Patton Hall—the level of commitment and dedication Patton College students exhibited this academic year remained high. Students were receiving Fulbright scholarships, interning in a resort in Vail, winning a best paper competition, receiving the Provost's research funding, leading the Students in Early Childhood Education Organization, founding an online boutique, learning to cook Haitian food, creating a webinar for the athletic industry addressing the perception of women, winning scholarships from a national honors society, and participating in the first Brothers RISE cohort for African American males majoring in teaching. As always, the college is forever OHIO Proud & Patton Proud!

The 2021-2022 year welcomed changes as Russ College of Engineering and Technology students began to return to the halls of Stocker Center and the Academic Research Center. Despite the limitations of the COVID-19 pandemic, Russ students were able to collaborate, strategize, and design to make an impact that lasts a lifetime.

Our students continued to lead innovative projects and immerse themselves in enriching experiences, like Engineering Technology and Management student Reed Mechley (pictured) who won the Warner Award for Undergraduate Research in electrohydraulics. Students in the Russ College did not let COVID-19 safety protocol affect them as they continued to excel in their studies, engage in student organizations, and conduct cutting-edge research.

The Scripps College of Communication continued to lead the new and next this past year, opening an esports facility, introducing a new major in virtual reality and game development, and providing our students incredible opportunities to roll up their sleeves and apply what they learned in the classroom. Students spent semesters in Los Angeles and Washington, DC, enrolled in classes that took them to recording studios in New York City and Austin, and of course, spent a week in Orlando learning about theme park magic. Back on campus, they did amazing work in class, on their own, and in award-winning student organizations like PRSSA and SPJ.

Phi Sigma Pi is a co-ed national honors fraternity. It was founded in 1916 at Central Missouri State University and today has chapters at 98 colleges and universities all over the United States. The fraternity is founded on three principles: scholarship, leadership, and fellowship. Thus, the fraternity acts as one-third community service organization, one-third honor society, and one-third social fraternity. Epsilon Iota, the Ohio University chapter of Phi Sigma Pi is almost two years old. It was founded in May of 2006 and currently has over 60 members. Epsilon Iota is working hard to strengthen it's contribution to the Athens and Ohio University community.

AGES Org

Content courtesy of Ages Org

AGES is an organization that focuses on older adults and community outreach. This semester we have successfully been able to raise over $1,500 for the Alzheimer's Association and participated in the Athens Walk to End Alzheimer's. We were able to assist in putting together and sending out surveys about the community as part of the Age-Friendly Athens initiative. We have also welcomed guest speakers from various organizations in the community to tell us what they do and how we could get involved. We are currently hosting a board game drive for Good Works and planning a Story Box event with UpBEAT. Next semester we hope to finally get back into volunteering in local nursing homes and the community center. We also are planning to host a Dementia Friends workshop to learn more about dementia and turn that understanding into action. AGES is such a great organization for anyone who would like to work with older adults in their career. Being a part of AGES has been such a rewarding experience for us all.

Ralph and Luci Schey Sales Centre

Content courtesy of Callie Burton and Alyssa D'Egidio

The Ralph and Luci Schey Sales Centre is a student organization that was founded in 1997. The program was created with the hope and goal of providing Ohio University students with a professional sales education. Since 1997, the organization has created its own academic certificate and grown to 700+ student members. These 700+ students have gone through a selective interview process to gain access to a overabundance of professional development opportunities. The Schey has 28 student leadership positions and 14 teams that members can join. These teams hold multiple meetings each week that are focused around all aspects of professional selling and development. Above this, students will gain access to a network of alumni, professors and industry professionals. The Schey has 48 corporate partners who pay the organization to gain access to a variety of networking and recruitment events. What does all of this mean to the students within the program? The answer: 100% job placement and all the tools needed to excel in any job they secure.

Sports Business Administration

Content courtesy of Tim Hales

This semester has seen unprecedented growth within the Sports Business Association. With over 100 active members, they were a busy club during the Fall 2021 semester. Their members participated in networking trips to Columbus and Nashville, the 2021 Ryder Cup in Wisconsin, worked on many OU Athletics events in various ways, and won the Darren Butler Case Study Competition.

They heard from guest speakers in the sports industry who work for the Columbus Crew, Cleveland Cavaliers, Milwaukee Bucks and SoFi Stadium & Hollywood Park. Additionally, they were able to provide a donation to the Bradley Allen Moorhead scholarship fund. With all of this, the future is bright for the young sports professionals in the Sports Business Association.

Sigma Delta Pi

Content courtesy of Sigma Delta Pi and Callie Burton

Sigma Delta Pi, the National Collegiate Hispanic Honor Society, has a strong presence at Ohio University. This year, chapter Pi Rho/Tau was awarded for the third consecutive year with the title of Honor Chapter for its activities, as well as the Ignacio and Sophie Galbis Award for the second time.

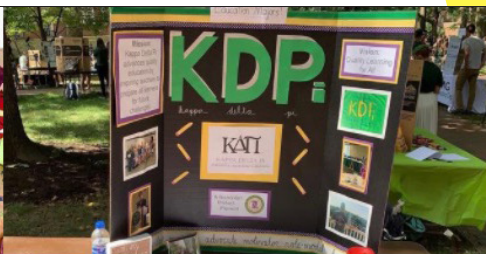

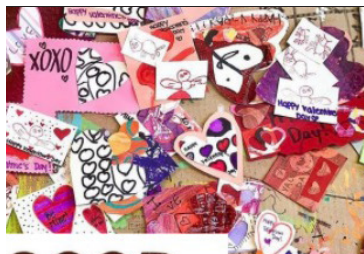

This fall, chapter Pi Rho/Tau celebrated Day of the Dead by decorating the second floor of Gordy Hall with traditional flowers and “papel picado”, as well as presenting a traditional altar. International students who celebrate the holiday were invited to decorate the altar with pictures of family members who have passed away. On the first day of the celebration, November 1st, SDP hosted an event which included a “Bread of the dead” [pan de muerto] competition, an informative video about the traditions and indigenous roots of the day, and several games of “lotería mexicana”.

Sigma Delta Pi turned 102 this November! To celebrate, chapter Pi Rho/Tau combined their cord ceremony with its birthday celebration. We have many events planned to share the Spanish language and cultures.

The Picardy Thirds are a co-ed acappella group focused on inclusion and building a sense of belonging. Over the course of the semester, they organized a Jam Session for all the acappella groups to sing together, something they haven't done since 2020. They did several performances including Court St. tours, Donkey Coffee, and their fall showcase in Baker Ballroom. They are currently working on a fundraiser in February for the Survivor Advocacy Outreach Program where the acappella community at OU will come together to sing and raise money for SAOP.

Tree Toppers

Content courtesy of Preston Lynch

The Tree Toppers had a very busy year, but one of their brightest highlights was the music they released on November 19th. Many of the members are in the Music Production program and they used the knowledge that they had from the program to create an album rollout complete with an advanced marketing plan, high-quality photos and videos, proper copyright and registry, professional mixing and mastering, and good vibes for the city of Athens. What's even better is that it was all mixed and mastered by an OU Alumni now working in LA as a full-time studio engineer. The album is titled "Rain or Shine" under the artist's name "Peat Lynch" and was released on all platforms (Spotify, Apple Music, YouTube, etc.) on November 19th.

Club Softball

Content courtesy of Bella Rosa

The Club Softball team had a very successful season and year! They played four teams in five weeks during the fall season: Ohio State University, West Virginia University, Wright State University and Slippery Rock University. They play their games on Sundays and the games consist of triple header events all played back-to-back. They went 12-0 and were first in the Mid-Atlantic West conference. They are also currently ranked ninth in the nation as a club, the first time they have ever been ranked nationally.

Unified Sisters

Unified Sisters was founded in 2000 by four women of color here at Ohio University with the intent to serve as a safe place for minority women and to unite and strengthen women through self-empowerment, cultural awareness, and professional development. On September 3, 2021, Unified Sisters hosted a 21st Birthday Bash to celebrate the founding of their organization, 21 years serving their campus, and members back to campus. On September 16, 2021, Unified Sisters hosted a panel discussion highlighting advice to their members about navigating college. The topics were: mental health, relationships, battling procrastination and perfectionism, navigating social life, and getting involved. On September 30, 2021, Unified Sisters hosted a yoga session lead by Grice Fitness and a conversation highlighting different ways to maintain your health while in college. On October 8, 2021, Unified Sisters was highlighted in The Post by journalist Alex Imwalle.

The title of the article is "Unified Sisters serves as a safe haven for women of color at OU". On October 10, 2021, Unified Sisters collaborated with Ohio University Student Organization Emerging Leaders to discuss how they as leaders can be more aware of micro-aggressions, allyship, and inspire others to do the same at OU. On October 22, 2021, Unified Sisters collaborated with the Sigma Psi Chapter of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity Inc. to host the 1st Unified Sisters powderpuff game. They had a very busy and eventful semester!

BobcaThon 2022

Content courtesy of Nate Swanson and Lizzie Blunk

BobcaThon is Ohio University's year long fundraiser for the Ronald McDonald House of Central Ohio. The student-run organization hosts multiple events throughout the year, but their most popular event is the 12-hour dance marathon that takes place in February. This year, BobcaThon raised over $72,000 for the kids and families that stay at the Ronald McDonald House. The money raised by BobcaThon this year is equivalent to covering the stay for families for over 3,600 nights. While COVID-19 was a set back for BobcaThon, the group plans to come back stronger than ever in the coming years.

Red Cross Club

Content courtesy of Marina Stevens

The Red Cross Club accomplished a lot this 2021-2022 school year. They helped recruit and organize several blood drives on campus. They raised money through a Chipotle fundraiser to donate to the American National Red Cross as well as pay for activities that the club members do at their biweekly meetings. They had snack/study nights, painted pumpkins, and even had a fun live bingo. They organized blood drives all throughout the year, and continued to spread awareness of volunteer opportunities in the community as well as raising money to donate to local and national non-profits.

Women in Medicine

Content courtesy of Alyssa Lambrecht

The Women in Medicine club accomplished many impressive things over the course of the 2021-2022 school year. Along with raising $100 for My Sister's Place through a Women in Medicine Pin sale, they also hosted a panel on the emotional side of medicine and a panel titled "Mothers in Medicine" to hear about having children in training and balancing work and life. They started the process to get feminine hygiene products in the new Heritage Hall building and organized a women's self-defense class. They also volunteered at Brake for Breakfast to raise awareness for breast cancer and mammograms.

Bobcat Student Orientation

Content courtesy of Callie Burton and Emme Vair

Bobcat Student Orientation is a way for incoming students to smoothly and successfully transition into college life. This year, BSO took place both in-person and virtually during the first weekend of June. BSO started with the overnight stay in a residence hall, which helps students feel more comfortable on campus before coming here. The second day of orientation consisted of the OHIO Student Life Experience, in which leaders from the Office of the Dean of Students shared what they can expect from the first days on campus. They then took part in Becoming a Bobcat, where they were introduced to orientation leaders and other students in the college. Getting to know the campus before actually moving to it is a great way that OU welcomes their incoming students, and BSO was extremely successful this year coming back in-person.

Fall Move In

Content courtesy of Callie Burton and Rich-Joseph Facun

As the fall semester approached, the university did its best to ensure normalcy into the school year. All students were expected to test regularly through asymptomatic testing and follow Covid-19 guidelines. Gatherings were limited however in-person classes were and still are a priority to acclimate students to OHIO. Although move-in looked a bit different this year, students were still able to eat at dining halls, take part in welcome weekend activities, and adjust to college life with roommates.

Involvement Fair

Each year incoming students walk from Peden to College Green following the freshman photo. As students complete the walk, they arrive to hundreds of upperclassmen and folding tables overtaking the green. As freshmen began flooding in and the last stragglers closely followed, it began pouring rain. Bobcats stuck it out continuing to pass out flyers and treats despite the forecast.

Former President M. Duane Nellis honored 2020 graduates with an in-person graduation ceremony on September 5th, 2021. Due to the Covid-19 Pandemic, graduates were forced to celebrate their graduation from OHIO with a virtual ceremony a year and a half prior. The 2020 grads were welcomed back with a ceremony that took place in College Green outside of Templeton-Blackburn Alumni Memorial Auditorium.

Homecoming

Content courtesy of Bridget Ward and Akira Jakkson

Homecoming Week 2021 took place on the weekend of October 4-9. Many of our treasured alums returned to OU for homecoming this year, as it was a highly anticipated event, considering it was unable to take place last year during the pandemic. Homecoming gives all OU alums the chance to remember the moments, reconnect with the campus, reconnect with their old friends, and relive the memories that helped shape them into who they are now. The fun filled weekend consists of many well-known events and activities that bring the campus together. This year, a few of the events that took place were Paint the Town Green, OHIO Trivia Night, and the Yell Like Hell Pep Rally. Everyone showed their school spirit by decorating the town green and wearing their school colors all day for Paint the Town Green. The Ohio Alumni Association hosted an OHIO-themed trivia night in which students competed against alumni. A crowd of students and alums gathered on college green on Thursday, October 7 to show their school pride with enthusiasm. Marching 110 made an appearance to hype the crowd up for the coming football game.

Bobcat Mixology

Content courtesy of Bobcat Mixology and Bridget Ward

Back by popular demand this year, Bobcat Mixology, a bar-hopping event, took place on Friday, October 8 this year. Hosted by Colleen Carow, an OU alum and former OUAA staffer, this event consisted of both adult and kid-friendly versions of some classic Athens cocktails. Veteran bartender Erin “Stonewall” Christian, formerly of the Union, and Jackie O’s concocted the classic OU drinks, both virgin and alcoholic, for all to try. Attendees also had the chance to learn how to make them and receive the recipes. It was a successful and fun event that is loved by the whole community.

Yell Like Hell Pep Rally

The Yell Like Hell Pep Rally took place on Thursday, October 7 this year. The campus was excited to gather in person this year on college green at 6:45 p.m., with the students, faculty, staff, and area residents. Coming together for the common purpose of shouting out our Bobcat spirit in anticipation of Saturday's football game against Central Michigan, the campus was more enthusiastic this year than ever. To top it all off, Marching 110 showed up at the event to hype the campus up even more and get the spirits high.

Ohio University's Family Weekend 2021 took place on the weekend of September 10-12 this year. It was once again back in person after a long year of being in lockdown and not being able to participate in our campus's most favorite activities. This year, the campus was able to hold performing arts shows, a football game, a campfire, and a hike. OU's Performing Arts and Concert Series hosted two shows, one on Friday and one on Saturday. Friday's show consisted of an improv performance from Broadway's Next Hit Musical. Saturday was a comedy show with Joel McHale. The football team played Duquesne on Saturday with kickoff at 2 p.m. with a live D.J. at Peden Stadium. It was a very fun and successful family weekend, and the campus was thrilled to see the town looking lively again.

Pawpaw Festival

The annual Athens Pawpaw Festival took place this year on the weekend of September 17 through September 19. Starting back in 1998, this festival honors the Pawpaw fruit found throughout all of Ohio and most of the Eastern U.S. This fun-filled family weekend was held at the scenic Lake Snowden in Albany, Ohio this year, and was filled with three days of Pawpaw music, food, craft brews, contests/races, art, history, education, sustainable living workshops and activities for everyone. Friday the 17th consisted of a Pawpaw food fest that was accompanied by festival vendors who competed to produce the best dish. Saturday the 18th started at 11:45 a.m. with the contest called “The Biggest Pawpaw,” which allows contestants to showcase the biggest and most desirable Pawpaw for a prize. There was also a panel of brewer’s at 1:30 for participants to join a tasting. Sunday the 19th consisted of a cook-off with prepared dishes in all the pop-up tents. All weekend, there were activities such as horse drawn wagon rides, solar energy demonstrations at the green energy Ohio solar house, a T-shirt tote bag making station, an electric vehicle showcase, and the annual Pawpaw 4-miler and 1-mile fun run. This is a highly respected and very fun event that happens every year in Athens and something that the community enjoys attending.

Dads weekend is a cherished weekend at Ohio University. This year it was extremely special because it was the first time in two years that Dads Weekend had resumed since the Covid-19 Pandemic. The university offered activities such as a hike at the Ridges followed by stargazing and roasting marshmallows. Dads are often found uptown with students shopping for apparel and grabbing a bite to eat. Some students even engaged in corn hole competitions between dads!

The artist, Finneas stopped at Ohio University as part of his Optimist Tour held in the Templeton-Blackburn Memorial Auditorium. Based in Los Angeles, this 22 singer/songwriter and producer has swept with Grammys alongside his sister Billie Eilish. He was initially set to perform before the pandemic hit, the audience was excited for his long awaited visit and to be apart of in-person concerts again.

Say Her Name

Content courtesy of Callie Burton, Illustrated by Malaya Tindongan

SayHerName movement promotes awareness and emphasizes the experience black women and girls live through. Each program begins with a moment of silence to recognize the women who have been killed and those whose names are invisible. Throughout the fall and spring gatherings are held to serve as a place for those directly impacted by racism, sexism, and interlinked forms of oppression. Each meeting had diverse conversation dependent on the needs of the group.

Ohio University's Kennedy Museum of Art welcomed a new, intriguing exhibition on September 24, 2021: The Van Gogh Affect. The Van Gogh Affect is an exhibition of work by award-winning photographers Lynn Johnson and Patricia Lanza that reflects on the famous artists Vincent Van Gogh's continual influence on present-day perceptions of the world. The exhibition includes images Johnson created for a National Geographic story, Lullaby in Color, as well as images from Johnson and Lanza's joint trip through France and The Netherlands, where the pair was able to visit the sanitarium and village of Auvers-sur-Oise where Van Gogh last resided. This exhibition is a great addition to the Kennedy Museum of Art, and is, according to Johnson, "a meditation on why we, as humans, need creativity in our core – why the art spirit is a life force that can both fuel wonder and addiction." The Van Gogh Affect will be on display until March 27, 2022.

Fall Commencement

Fall commencement took place on December 11th, 2021, both graduate and undergraduate students were in attendance. While half of the grad's time at OHIO was during the Covid-19 pandemic, students were commended on their ability to continue with their studies.

"We wish you a life filled with career success, health and happiness. Remember, life is not only doing well, it is also doing good." - Hugh D. Sherman Ph.D., President

Degrees were handed out in order of doctoral degrees, master's degrees which was followed by bachelor and associate degrees.

John Quiñones

In October, Ohio University's chapter of Society of Professional Journalists hosted ABC News correspondent and "What Would You Do?" host, John Quiñones. The journalist shared his experiences as a young Mexican-American as he found his passion for journalism and story telling. Quiñones attended a reception earlier in the evening where he was honored with the Carr Van Ande award for his over 40 years in journalism. Later that evening at his talk, he shared with the crowd the hardship he experiences as a young person, words of wisdom from many of his mentors growing up, and went in depth into the behind of the scenes of his hit show "What Would You Do?". At the end of the evening, the floor was opened for questions from the students and Professors.

Over Dads weekend, The Post and Ohio University welcomed Stephen Kramer Glickman to campus to put on a performance showcasing his music from his first album The Moving Company. Glickman is also known for his role in the Nickelodeon show Big Time Rush where he played Gustavo Rocque, the world-renowned music producer. Flying into Ohio from L.A., Glickman spent the day touring Athens before preparing for his first ever live concert. Over 600 Students, of all ages, filled up seats to watch the actor from their childhood perform. After the show about 70 students got the pleasure of meeting Glickman and were able to talk to him one on one about his performance all while receiving his autograph. It is without a doubt that Ohio University students and Stephen Kramer Glickman himself will forever remember this amazing experience!

Sibs Weekend

Vaccine Mandate

On August 31st, 2021, President Hugh Sherman shared a message with the OHIO community to announce the requirement of the Covid-19 vaccine. The message reported that "after thoughtful consideration, in consultation with public health experts... all OHIO students, faculty, and staff at all locations are required to be vaccinated against Covid-19 by November 15, 2021."

Students had to be vaccinated or given an exemption (medical or conscience exemption) in order to participate in spring semester in-person activities, classes, and residence life. Vaccinations were made available at on-campus clinics. OU thanked everyone for doing their part in protecting the campus community and battling the pandemic.

The cheerleading team at Ohio consists of 12 females and 12 males. We are a traditional coed team, with females as flyers and males as bases. We cheer at all home football, men's basketball, and women's basketball games. We also send a travel team to away football games, any championship or bowl games, and any basketball tournament games. Our minimum tumbling requirements are a tanding tuck, standing hand-tuck, and a power roundoff tuck. Tryouts are typically held in May. Please check back for details as they become available.
